DETAILED ACTION

Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

1. A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on October 17, 2007 has been entered.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 1-4, 10-12, and 14-15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by or, in the alternative, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over Hartbauer et al., 3,960,272. and 3,912,571, for reasons of record

Hartbauer teaches a multi-ply product of the type contemplated by applicants, comprising a multi-ply fibrous structure having a core end and a tail, wherein the tail of the multi-ply fibrous structure comprises a consumer accessible tab, as required by claim 1. See Figures 11-15. In addition, Hartbauer teaches that the multi-ply fibrous structure is freely convolutedly wound from the core end out to the tail end to form a rolled multi-ply product, the tail is sealed to the fibrous structure with the consumer accessible tab more proximal to the tail end, using a adhesive and that said tab comprises at least two plies bonded together, as required by claims 2-4 and 14.

Regarding claims 10-11, the consumer accessible tab of Hartbauer extends from about the tail end of the fibrous structure along the fibrous structure towards the core end of the multi-ply fibrous structure. Regarding claim 12, Hartbauer specifically teaches that his fibrous structure can be a multi-ply fibrous structure. Accordingly, the examiner has reason to believe that the at least two plies of the multi-ply fibrous structure are bonded together by mechanical and/or chemical and/or electrostatic forces in the absence of factual evidence to the contrary. Applicants are invited to provide such evidence. As to claim 15, Hartbauer teaches that the multi-ply fibrous structure can be a sanitary tissue product. See '272 column 12, line 50 and '571, column 12, and line 52.

Accordingly, the teachings of Hartbauer anticipate or in the alternative, render obvious the invention as claimed in present claims 1-4, 10-12, and 14-15.

5. Claims 1-4, 10-12, and 14-16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Hartbauer et al., 3,960,272. and 3,912,571, as applied above, further in view of Von Paleske 6,924,042 B2.

Hartbauer is as set forth above and teaches a multi-ply fibrous product of the type contemplated by applicants. Von Paleske teaches that it is known in the art to form multi-ply products wherein at least two of the plies are bonded together. See abstract and column 2, lines 25-63. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in this art, at the time the invention was made to use as the multi-ply fibrous product of Hartbauer, a multi-ply fibrous product of the type taught by Von Paleske and as known in this art, namely, a multi-ply fibrous product wherein the first ply and second ply are bonded together.

Response to Arguments

6. Applicant's arguments filed September 11, 2007 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Applicants argue that Hartbauer fails to teach each and every element of claim 1 because Hartbauer fails to teach a multi-ply product that comprises a consumer accessible tab that is formed by a first ply and second ply being bonded together.

The examiner disagrees. The fact that Hartbauer teaches multi-ply fibrous structures necessarily embraces a tail end that comprises a first ply and second ply being bonded together. Furthermore, as to whether Hartbauer teaches each and every element of claim 1, it is the position of the examiner that the express, implicit and inherent disclosures of a prior art reference may be relied upon in the rejection of claims under 35 U.S.C. 102. See MPEP 2112.

Applicants have not clearly identified that which they regard as their invention. The prior art clearly teaches multi-ply products having a tail end comprising a consumer accessible tab and the prior art clearly establishes that multi-ply fibrous products wherein the first ply and second ply are bonded together are known. It is not construed to be inventive to wind a multi-ply fibrous structure, where the first ply and second ply are expected and presumed to be bonded together, around a core end to form a rolled multi-ply product, wherein the tail of the multi-ply fibrous structure comprises a consumer accessible tab. Note Figures 11, 14, and 15 of Hartbauer.

No claims are allowed.

Conclusion

7. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
